DETAILED ACTION

Examiner's Comments

1. This action is in response to applicant's amendment received on May, 07, 2008 wherein:

Claims 1-5 are currently pending,

Claim 1 has been amended.

The amended claim 1 recited as follow

I. (currently amended) A method of celebrating a person's life by attendees at a funeral after the person's death, comprising, causing the person, while alive, to create a message presentation that would welcome the attendee to the person's funeral and include personal comments to the attendee in a generally uplifting sense about the occasion of the funeral, storing the message presentation with instructions from the person that the message presentation be played at the person's funeral, and publicly playing the message presentation at the person's funeral for the attendees at the funeral to see and hear.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Atrio (US Patent No. 6,324,736) in view of Krim (.US Patent Application Publication No. US 2002/0072925 A1).

Regarding claim 1, Atrio discloses a method of celebrating a person's life by attendees at a funeral after the person's death, comprising:

storing the message presentation with instructions that the message presentation be played at the person's funeral [...pre-record message is played at the funeral, video tapes or the video and audio images of the deceased during certain events in his/her lifetime which could then be edited to result in a single recorded presentation to play at the funeral service; see col. 2, lines 66-67; col. 4, lines 2-7];

and publicly playing the message presentation at the person's funeral for the attendees at the funeral to see and hear [...the message presentation about the deceased might be shared with his/her family, friends and other mourners attending the funeral service; see col. 4, lines 7-12].

causing the person, while alive, to create a message presentation that would welcome the attendee to the person's funeral and include personal comments to the attendee in a generally uplifting sense about the occasion of the funeral [...pre-recorded message about the life of deceased is played at the funeral; see abstract; col. 2, lines 61-67; col. 3, lines 1-2].

While Atrio does not mention a message presentation is created by the person while alive, and the message is stored with instructions from the person that the message presentation be played at the person's funeral.

In a similar method of displaying the person's message at the funeral, Krim discloses a message presentation is created by the person while alive [...member may record and document their memorable and life-enriching experiences with their family and friends at the member's death; the messages may be designated for delivery on a date certain; see pars. 0034-0036 and figures 5E-2 and 5F (attach to message)]; and storing the message presentation with instruction from the person that the message presentation be played at the person's funeral [...i.e. "the member/person instructs to send a notification message (par. 0038, lines 1-4)"; . "this message may be the message that the member himself created" (par. 0059, lines 6-8); discloses the message about the person or member be delivered on a date certain (par. 0034-0035).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention was made to provide the instruction for playing a message presentation at the funeral service about the life of the deceased of Atrio to include a message is created by a person while alive and is delivered on a funeral or a date certain as taught by Krim in order to share his/her thoughts and life experiences with the mourners attending the funeral service.

Regarding claim 2, Atrio discloses wherein the message presentation is projected on a screen [...video display unit 20; col. 2, line 63; col. 5, lines 21-23 and figure 2].

Regarding claim 3, Atrio discloses wherein the message presentation is an audio presentation [...audio and visual image; see abstract; col. 2, lines 65-66; col. 4, lines 2-5].

Regarding claim 4, Atrio discloses wherein the message presentation is a combination video-type and audio presentation [...video tape edited to carry images of the deceased during his/her lifetime [...see col. 3, lines 666-67; col. 4, lines 1-5; col. 6, lines 1-4];

Regarding claim 5, Atrio discloses wherein the message presentation is an audio/video presentation [...video and audio images of the deceased; see col. 4, lines 1-5].

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed May/07/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's comment that Atrio does not teach "storing the message presentation with instructions from the person that the message presentation be played at the person's funeral. However, this limitation is disclosed in the 2nd reference or Krim. Krim discloses storing the message presentation with instruction from the person that the message presentation be played at the person's funeral [...i.e. "the member/person instructs to send a notification message (par. 0038, lines 1-4)"; ." this message may be the message that the member himself created" (par. 0059, lines 6-8); discloses the message about the person or member be delivered on a date certain (par. 0034-0035). A date certain can be a holiday, anniversary day or funeral day.

Furthermore, Atrio discloses storing the message presentation with instructions that the message presentation be played at the person's funeral as showed in col. 2, lines 66-67; col. 4, lines 2-7 wherein...pre-record message is played at the funeral, video tapes or the video and audio images of the deceased during certain events in his/her lifetime which could then be edited to result in a single recorded presentation to play at the funeral service.

As the reason stated above, Atrio as modified by Krim discloses storing the message with instruction from the person that the message presentation be played at the person's funeral.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
